Jiachang Zhang DDS

Dr. Zhang graduated from the Dental Department of China Medical University in 1986. He practiced as an oral surgeon for 8 years and obtained an abundance of experience in the oral surgery field before he began doing research at NIH, where he worked as a postdoctoral and research fellow for 8 years. During this period, Dr. Zhang published many science papers and developed a US patent. In 2003, Dr. Zhang was granted a dental board license after passing the California Dental Board exam. Since becoming a dentist, Dr. Zhang has taken many continuing education courses in order to further his understanding and expertise in the field. Because he possesses both a clinical and a scientific background, he can easily integrate the new dental techniques that he learns into his daily practice. Meanwhile, Dr. Zhang has developed many new dental techniques, such as channel brackets for orthodontics. After successfully practicing for 8 years in Bakersfield, California, Dr. Zhang opened his second office in Anaheim, Orange County, California. Dr. Zhang has a heart to serve his patients better, which inspires him to work hard to make dentistry a more comfortable experience.

Jit Chan DDS

Dr. Chan moved from China to Chicago where he attended Northwestern University. He graduated as a Doctor of Dental Surgery in 1993 and in 1996, he opened his own dental office in the neighborhood of Little Village. Dr. Chan has been here ever since, serving the Hispanic and Chinese communities. For over two decades, he has treated generations of families and has gained the respect of his patients through his impeccable work technique and warm, individualized, patient attention. With many years of experience under his belt, Dr. Chan continues to keep up to date by actively being a part of the dental community and attending lectures and seminars in order to adapt the newest technology in our office.
